Use Broadway Crossing Pending Readjustments

Public Service Commission Grants Trolley Company's Application for Reasonable Period, to Permit Readjustment of Switches to Facilitate Operation Through Subway—Permission May Be Withdrawn—City Must Withdraw Its Opposition.

Albany, Nov. 18.—The Public Service Commission Wednesday authorized the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company to operate its cars over the Broadway crossing of the West Shore tracks in Kingston to an extent necessary to maintain its schedules and for a reasonable period of time which will permit the readjustment of switches and turnouts and the acquisition of an additional car to facilitate operation through the West Shore subway.

The order provides that the metal trolley guard at the crossing shall be maintained in good order and that before a car proceeds on the West Shore tracks, the conductor shall go upon the track to ascertain that the crossing is clear and when clear, to flag the car across the tracks. The commission, in its order, reserves the right to withdraw this permission given at any time when it deems such operation shall cease.

City Must Withdraw Opposition.
The above provisions shall not become effective until there is filed with the commission the withdrawal by the city of Kingston of its opposition to the application of the railroad company for permission to cross the railroad tracks at Broadway and its approval of the application of the company to so operate.

Central Must Restore Frogs.
The application of the New York Central Company, as lessee, for permission to remove the frogs used for the tracks of the street railroad at the crossing is denied and the company is directed to forthwith restore and maintain the frogs.

Trolley Company Wanted Test.
The order of the commission on July 30, 1925, permitting abandonment of certain parts of the street railroad in Kingston, provided that cars should be operated through the West Shore undercrossing and not over the Broadway grade crossing. The trolley company asked that it be permitted to run over the Broadway crossing, alleging that use of the underground crossing had proved unsatisfactory, that long delays in car operation ensued, that new turnouts required would mean an expenditure of $20,364 and additional car operation to cure delays, $9,647 a year. The company asked for the right to use the Broadway crossing for such a time as will give proper test of the traffic on street cars and buses, ability of the company to provide for additional car operation, as well as to permit readjustment of switches and turnouts to facilitate operation through the subway. The New York Central Railroad also asked for authority to remove the frogs used for the street car tracks at the Broadway crossing.

Claims It Can't Meet Burden.
The company, at a hearing before Commissioner Van Voorhis, submitted evidence as to delay in car operation, that additional switches required and added car operation to overcome delay because of operating through the subway is a financial burden which it is unable to meet. That 1,000 patrons of the company voted in favor of crossing the railroad tracks at grade and 480 for operation through the subway.

Taxpayers' Aids, Favors Change.
The Kingston Taxpayers' Association favored the company's application. The city of Kingston, the commission is advised, is about to withdraw its opposition to the company's application and recommend that it be granted to the end that schedules may be maintained and better service given. A petition by the company for an increase in its fare rates which, it alleged, were required because of the falling off in traffic, due, among other things, to failure to maintain service, is to be withdrawn.

The West Shore Grade Crossing Is Protected by Gates and a Townsman on Duty Twenty-Four Hours, and There Is a Metal Trolley Guard.

Why Change Is Recommended.
Commissioner Van Voorhis, in his decision, says, in view of the inadequacy of the service by failure to maintain schedules, the company's petition should be granted to an extent necessary to maintain schedules and for a reasonable period of time, which will permit readjustment of switches and turnouts and acquisition of an additional car to facilitate operation through the subway.

First Step Up to City.
The first step to be taken before the decision of the public service commission can be put into effect by the Kingston Consolidated Railroad is for the common council to withdraw its opposition to the application of the railroad company for permission to cross the railroad tracks at Broadway and its approval of the application of the company to so operate.

Common Council Meeting.
The common council will meet at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, November 19, at which time Mayor E. J. Dempsey informed the council that he had been informed that the Kingston Consolidated Railroad had already taken the matter up with the public service commission.

Special Meeting Undecided.
Mayor Dempsey when seen this morning stated that until he had received an official copy of the decision of the public service commission, he was unable to state at this time whether a special meeting of the common council would be held this month.

If no special meeting of the council is called this month it is expected that the matter will come up for action at the December meeting.

U. & D. Train Service Has Been Resumed

Washed Out Trackage Between Shandaken and Phoenicia Relaid Wednesday and Train Service Resumed That Afternoon—Stony Clove Still Closed.

Train service on the Ulster & Delaware railroad which was crippled when the Esopus creek overflowed its banks Tuesday, washing out a large amount of trackage between Shandaken and Phoenicia, is again normal, trains being able to get through Wednesday afternoon.

Today all train service on the Ulster & Delaware railroad was normal between Kingston and Oneonta. The Stony Clove Branch is still closed to traffic but the railroad has a large force of men at work clearing the tracks and it was expected that service on the Stony Clove would be resumed late this afternoon.

The Stony Clove Branch was closed to traffic by a large number of slides, some large and some small, on Tuesday following the heavy rain fall that swept over the mountain section.

The railroad found the most damage to its system in the Phoenicia yard where all of the tracks were inundated. As soon as word of the flood was received at the railroad offices arrangements were made to place a large force of men at work opening the system again. It was necessary to relay considerable trackage as the ballast of cinders had been washed out by the flood, causing the rails to drop.

At the railroad offices it was stated that no estimate as to the amount of the damage had been made.

Our Growing Population.
The following births have been reported to the board of health:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zimmermann, 84 Clifton avenue, a daughter, Margaret Anna, at Kingston City Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. McSpill, 36 Howard avenue, a daughter, Rose Mary, at Benedictine Hospital.

North Front Street Improvement.
C. E. Emerick, sidewalk contractor, has a force of men at work building a concrete sidewalk in front of the M. Hynes clothing and gents' furnishing store at 52-58 North Front street.

draw its opposition to the trolley cars using the Broadway crossing, and the replacing of the trolley tracks on the crossing by the New York Central railroad.

At the meeting of the common council held Friday evening, November 12, a resolution was introduced by Alderman DeGarmo of the railroad committee withdrawing the city's opposition to the use of the Broadway crossing provided that the trolley company provided the city with a financial guarantee to the use of the Broadway crossing. He also informed the aldermen that the trolley company had asked the public service commission to hold up the date for the public hearing on the increased fare application until the Broadway crossing question was settled by the common council.

The trolley question was again brought up at the meeting of the common council on Tuesday evening at which time Mayor E. J. Dempsey informed the council that he had been informed that the Kingston Consolidated Railroad had already taken the matter up with the public service commission.

Special Meeting Undecided.
Mayor Dempsey when seen this morning stated that until he had received an official copy of the decision of the public service commission, he was unable to state at this time whether a special meeting of the common council would be held this month.

If no special meeting of the council is called this month it is expected that the matter will come up for action at the December meeting.

Carol's Letters Read Into Record

Showed His Deep Affection For His Former Morganatic Wife—Hearing On Obligation of Prince to Zizi Lambriano.

Paris, Nov. 18 (AP).—My heart's own darling, you know that you are the only woman in the world for me," wrote former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania in one of the many fervid missives he sent to his former morganatic wife, Madame Zizi Lambriano, after he was separated from her by an annulment of the marriage by the Rumanian Parliament.

The amatory effusions have been read into the record of the first chamber of the Seine department tribunal in an action of Madame Lambriano to determine the status of the six-year-old son Mircea, born of the morganatic union, and whether Madame Lambriano shall be granted ten million francs damages. Madame Lambriano desires that her son shall have the name of Hohenzollern—that of the Rumanian royal household—Charles Hohenzollern.

After the separation of Carol and Zizi in 1918, Carol, in 1921, married Princess Helen of Greece, by whom he had a son. But later he left her and departed from Rumania with Madame Magda Lupescu, the auburn haired daughter of a Jewish merchant of Jassy.

Carol, in one of the letters introduced by M. Salmon, counsel for Madame Lambriano, wrote to Queen Marie, his mother, begging her to "permit him to keep Zizi as his wife. 'Dear mama, I cannot have Zizi left in this ridiculous and equivocal position,' said the letter, 'and never could I permit that the child to be born out of our marriage should be considered illegitimate.' The lawyer declared this letter was never answered.

Other letters show that Carol's deep affection persisted even after the marriage annulment in 1919.

9 Sentenced on Lynching Charge

Douglas, Ga., Nov. 18 (AP).—Nine members of a mob that removed Dave Wright, a white man, from the county jail last August 27 and lynched him, have pleaded guilty to murder and drawn sentences of from four years to life imprisonment.

Major Brown, a white man, and brother-in-law of the woman for whose death Wright was held, pleaded guilty to murder yesterday when only four jurors had been selected in a trial called for thirteen men suspected of being members of the mob. Robert Bullard, one of the defendants, turned state's evidence and was kept away from court.

Several hundred persons were crowded into a little court room when Judge Harry D. Reed was asked to permit counsel for defense and prosecution to confer. Immediately a plea of guilty was entered for Brown and before spectators reacted to the announcement, Judge Reed had sentenced the man to life imprisonment.

Pleas of guilty then were arranged for eight other defendants and the court imposed sentences varying from four to 29 years. The eight were: Archie Tenner, George Lott, Paul Cody, Willie Arnold, Alvin Taylor, Joe Hutto, Alma Hutor and Charlie Adams.

B. S. L. Tells Lies About Theatre

The Busy Street Lie has turned his attention to Reade's Kingston Theatre and a report is being circulated that some steel beams erected in the theatre were not strong enough and had to be replaced. Mr. Betz, architect in charge, states that the B. S. L. as usual does not know what he is talking about and has not taken the trouble to look into the matter. The report is not fair to the men who have been in charge of the building. Contrary to the report of the B. S. L. no mistakes have been made by anyone in charge of the work.

Since the contract has been let considerable additional work has been planned which necessitated general changes in the construction as originally planned. This work is also the cause of the delay in the completion of the work at the theatre.

No. 4 P. S. L. Meeting.
The P. S. L. of School No. 4 will hold a meeting on Friday at 7:30 p. m. The fathers of the children are cordially invited to attend. Kingston Post, No. 124, American Legion, and the Legion Auxiliary will hold their regular monthly meeting Friday evening in the Legion Memorial building. The Legion Ball committee will make a report at the meeting. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Lancer on Stand In Own Defense, Case With Jury

Albany Avenue Grocer Says He Slept In Kitchen for Warmth and Was Awakened by Smoke—Gave Valuable Papers to Neighbor for Safe Keeping.

Isadore Lancer took the stand in his own defense this morning and gave his version of what happened on the night and early morning of December 26 and 27 when the store and residence property was damaged by several fires. Lancer has been indicted on a charge of arson, third degree, in connection with the fires and the case is being tried in county court before Judge Fowler.

Practically all testimony was in at noon and the case will be summed up and sent to the jury this afternoon.

Lancer testified that on the night prior to the fire he had gone to the Hillowitz home on Albany avenue near his place about 9 o'clock after he closed his store. This was the first visit of a friendly nature he had made to the Hillowitz home although he had been there on business on prior occasions. It was about 11 o'clock when he returned home.

He entered the house and after locking the doors went to sleep on a couch which had been placed across a bath-tub in the kitchen. There was no evidence of fire then and the only fire in the building was in the kitchen stove. He slept in the kitchen as it was the only warm room in the place.

Awakened by Smoke.
He had been asleep about two hours when he was awakened by smoke. He was "scared" and arose and pulled on his pants, shoes and overcoat and then discovered fire in the bedroom off the kitchen. He did not stop to tie up his shoes but left the place by the side room which gave entrance to the cellar. He went outside after looking in the bedroom and store and finding fire in both places.

Outside, he began to shout that the place was on fire but he did not know if he had awakened any neighbors or not. A car came along and he shouted to the driver to stop. It was a car occupied by Osterhout and Tremper. The car stopped and backed up and Lancer said he told them that his place was on fire. They went to the fire alarm box down street but did not turn in an alarm there. They returned to the Roosa place opposite the Lancer property and they all tried to arouse someone. Miss Roosa came down to the door and Lancer said he in company with the two young men told her to please call the fire department as his place was on fire.

Youths Afraid to Enter.
They returned to the Lancer house but the two youths were afraid to enter the house. Lancer said he entered but came out again immediately.

It was about 2 o'clock when he was awakened.
After the fire department had been called he stopped and laced up his shoes. Fire was coming out of the north side of the house when the firemen arrived.

Kept Gasoline for Bed Bags.
He said he had kept a small bottle of gasoline and kerosene to use for bed bag extermination purposes and he had used some on a mattress in one of the rooms. He had been using this preparation for 14 years.

He had been in the cellar of the place last about 3 or 4 o'clock to draw a gallon of kerosene. In the cellar were a number of bags which he kept in an apple barrel. The bags were in the barrel when he was last down cellar. He usually kept the bags until he had a number and then he sold them. The barrel, which it was testified had been on fire, he said, had been in the place when he bought it.

When he went to sleep on the bath-tub he covered himself with a blanket from one of the bedrooms. There was no fire then. The pillow had also been taken from the bedroom.

Denies Making Statement.
He denied that he had ever told N. B. Gross he would settle his loss after the fire for $1,000. He said he did not believe in insurance but always carried some. He had to protect his mortgages.

Lancer said he had not told Sergeant Phinney that he had an enemy, or a man who owed him $25. The sergeant had been mistaken in the statement. Lancer had told the sergeant that people owed him money. He had put up a sign in his store stating that there was no trustee any more and he thought that this might have made some enemies to him.

Small Stock in Window.
On cross-examination he said he carried a good stock in the store in the summer but in the winter business was not so good and he did not carry as much stock. He denied having told Sergeant Simpson that business had been bad.

He said he bought the place in 1923 for $4,400 and of that amount he had secured a half interest for $150 cash and his mother-in-law had taken a half interest for a similar amount and the rest of the purchase price had been secured by mortgages.

He had taken this place in 1923 and he had been there for some time when he was taken there for safe keeping because his children bothered him.

75 Charged With "Dry" Violations

Federal Grand Jury in Chicago Indicts 75, Including Municipal Court Judge and Police Captain for Conspiracy to Violate Volstead Act.

Chicago, Nov. 18 (AP).—The Federal government's inquiry into dry law violation in Chicago reached today into the municipal courts and into the ranks of the city police department.

Captain John Prendergast, secretary to Chief of Police Morgan Collins, and Municipal Judge Harry M. Walker were at the top of a list of seventy-four Chicagoans named in the blanket indictment which was the latest thrust of the federal grand jury.

Numerous court and police subordinates were also included in the bills, which charged conspiracy to defeat prohibition enforcement, from "fixing" cases in court, it was said, to actual sale of liquor.

The move was accompanied by a statement from United States District Attorney Olson referring to the "utility of dry enforcement efforts because of crooks holding important posts in the Chicago police department."

Mayor Dever demanded an immediate airing of the charges and characterized the grand jury action as an aftermath of brushes between the city and federal authorities.

Judge Walker, who was not informed of specific violation charged to him, attributed the indictment to his liberation of "minor offenders" brought into his court, and Chief Collins defended his subordinate. The indictment charged conspiracy on each of four counts—manufacture, sale and transportation of liquor, and operation of public nuisances.

The district attorney said that the government made the move in a campaign to "give terrorists and obstructionists special attention and find out whether the United States government is powerful enough to protect the regular processes of its courts."

Middlewest Swept By Snow Storms

Three Deaths in Chicago Attributed To The Snow Storm, Which Broke All November Records—Six Inches in Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 18 (AP).—Snow-laden clouds roiled the central west today and moved eastward before gusty winds that brought record breaking November snowfall out of the northwest. Cornbelt temperature went down to turn into snow and buries became small blizzards before winds which approached gale velocities in some localities.

Warnings were displayed on all the Great Lakes except Ontario as the storm center swept today into Illinois from the southwest where it took snow and freezing temperatures. The mercury hung around twenty degrees in parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The passing of the wave left St. Louis with more than five inches of snow last night, there were falls of as much as six inches in Illinois and weather bureau throughout the region measured snow depths unprecedented for the month.

There were three deaths in Chicago indirectly attributed to the storm. An unidentified woman, blinded by snow, walked in front of a street car; a teamster drove into a fallen high tension wire and a switchman was killed when, shielding his face from the driving snow, he stumbled into the path of a train.

Negroes Rampage At East Kingston

Willie Anderson, James Brown and Nordise Felten, negroes, are in the Ulster county jail awaiting a hearing this evening before Judge Walter Webber in the town of Ulster on a charge of disorderly conduct. Three deputies were sent to East Kingston and they arrested the trio after midnight. They were arraigned at 2 o'clock in the morning before Judge Webber at Flatbush who remanded them to jail to be held until this evening for arraignment. It was said the negroes were intoxicated.

Esopus Creek Is Again Peaceful Following Flood

Washed Out Roads and Damaged Bridges Make Detours Necessary—No Bus Service Between Phoenicia and Pine Hill—Telephone Service Restored.

Following the inundation on Tuesday when the Esopus creek overflowed its banks and went on a rampage, causing considerable property damage, destroying bridges, washing out roads and tying up all traffic on the Ulster & Delaware railroad, the swollen waters have subsided and today the Esopus creek was again peacefully winding its way through the mountains on its way to the Hudson river.

Through service on the Ulster & Delaware railroad was restored late Wednesday afternoon when the trackage that was washed out between Shandaken and Phoenicia was relaid, but bus service has only been restored between Kingston and Phoenicia and from there to Lanesville. It has been impossible to run the buses through from Phoenicia to Pine Hill as the bridges crossing the Esopus creek between those points were so damaged as to make them unsafe for traffic.

Detour at Cold Brook.
At Cold Brook it has been necessary to arrange a detour for all traffic as a considerable portion of the road was washed out by the flood.

At the Lumbum lumber yard at Shandaken considerable damage was sustained when all of the lumber in the yard floated away on the flood down the Esopus creek.

Must Rebuild Bridge.
The bridge crossing the Esopus creek connecting Mt. Tremper and Mr. Pleasant is down. The center piece was washed away, the bridge collapsed and the bridge is tilted to one side. The bridge, however, was used Wednesday and today by pedestrians, but cannot be used for vehicular traffic. The entire bridge is so badly damaged that it will have to be rebuilt.

During the height of the flood on Tuesday the road for a half mile north of Mt. Tremper and to within a half mile of Phoenicia was entirely under water.

Damage Runs Into Thousands.
Not in the memory of the oldest inhabitants have the waters of the Esopus risen to such heights as on Tuesday, and the property damage will run into the thousands of dollars although no attempt has been made to estimate it. Many houses between Cold Brook and Phoenicia were badly damaged by the flood.

Telephone service to the flood districts has again been resumed as the New York Telephone Company placed a large gang of men at work restoring the wires which had broken down during the flood of Tuesday.

Jury Disagrees In Mason Case

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 18 (AP).—A disagreement in the case of Walter Mason, hotel proprietor of Fort Ann, N. Y., charged with murder in the killing of Custom's Agent E. R. Webb, was reported by the jury today. The jury was discharged and Judge Thompson set next Monday as the date for a new trial.

Live Wire Kills Marlborough Man

Joseph Mosca, employed by the New York Trap Rock Company at Cedarcliff, was accidentally electrocuted when his body came in contact with a 2,200 volt power line at the plant Tuesday. Mosca, 36 years old, lived at Marlborough. His wife gave birth to a baby only ten days ago.

Laying New Sidewalk To West Shore Station

The sidewalk leading from Broadway along the railroad property on Railroad avenue to the Union Station is being relaid with a new pavement material known as "Bedley." It is of half-inch stone foundation covered with heavy oil substance and is of smaller size than was used about the station. The sidewalk has been in bad condition for years, pools of water forming at many spots after each rain. The new sidewalk will be appreciated by travelers and others who have business at the passenger station and the baggage room.

In Police Court.
James Campbell, a negro, arrested on a charge of train robbery, was sentenced to five days in jail by Judge Sheffield today. Fred Miller, arrested for public intoxication, was fined $10.

ODD SECT BARS WIVES, BABIES

Also Don't Allow Women to Bob Their Hair or Wear Short Dresses.

London.—No husbands or wives, no babies, no movies, no fashions, no games, no nothing, seems to be the motto of a queer sect which has suddenly obtained publicity here.

They are the "Dependents"—meaning dependent on one another and God.

The Dependent church, with its community numbering some 100-odd men and women, is centered at Loxwood a pleasant Sussex village about ten miles from Horsham, which is the nearest town. Actually the sect is not very new. It was founded some seventy years ago by John Sirgood, Loxwood village cobbler, who lies buried in the graveyard attached to the small brick and tile church in Loxwood village. There are no headstones on the Loxwood village graves, but the resting place of the founder is marked by a small oak tree.

Has Seven Churches.

John Sirgood takes no high rank in history, but, like John Brown, his soul goes marching on. There are seven churches belonging to the Dependent sect scattered throughout England but the headquarters are in Loxwood.

Wearing mid Victorian dress, the womenfolk of the sect eschew shining bobbing and similar modern fashions, and it was in fact, the lengthy skirts of the women and absence of shingled or bobbed heads that recently attracted public attention to the community—which desires nothing so little as advertisement.

The Dependents believe that music other than that of their own voices is unseemly, and they sing their hymns with great vigor and without alavish observance of key. There is no pre-arranged form of worship at their church services. Anybody may speak. Anybody may read the lessons or preach. There is no high priest, though Harry Aylward, a local storekeeper, is the nearest approach thereto, being the recognized leader of the movement in Loxwood.

Must Stay Unwed.

"We put no bar on our members," declared Aylward "They are not forbidden to play games, for instance. But none of us do. We admit wives and husbands, but the unmarried who join us never wish to marry. When our day's work is done we devote our leisure to prayer."

Prayer, in fact, is the main tenet of the Dependents' creed, and when they take a "holiday" it is utilized for prayer. Very simple, indeed, is the faith of the Dependents, but it attracts young women and old. It is by no means an aggregation of soured bachelors and spinsters. Several quite beautiful young women are numbered among the Loxwood flock.

Asks for Lipstick as

She Lands in Flight

Paris.—"Lend me your lipstick; my lips are all parched from the cold," were the first words spoken by Mlle. Denyse Collin when she landed after a full hour's flight which qualified her for the third woman's aerial pilot license issued in France.

The request was addressed to Mme. Adrienne Boland, who in 1921 was the first French woman to obtain a license and who had watched her friend's flight with great interest. Mme. Louise Maryse, who qualified as a pilot last year, was not present.

During her test of 60 minutes in a heavy biplane Mlle. Collin looped the loop, glided with motor cut off and other stunts and easily passed her examination. A nurse with the French hospital corps during the war, the young woman flew for the first time when she accompanied a wounded French general in a plane from Reims to Paris.

She then vowed that she would be an aviator. Later she became a parachute jumper, dropping no fewer than forty times from airplanes in full flight.

Children Prefer Poor

Mother to Rich Father

New York.—Ten days with their mother in a small apartment with no servants and few luxuries convinced Sally Miles, eleven years old, and her brother, Edward, ten, that they would prefer to live with her than with their father in a big house with many servants, costly toys and a private school.

Their decision was registered in court here when they went on the witness stand in the trial of a suit for increased alimony, brought by Mrs. Eleanor Miles against William Roy Miles. On their testimony the court decided that they should live with their mother in Orange N. Y., and visit their father in Babylon, N. Y., six weeks each year.

In the fall, after they had spent the summer with their father, the children told the court they preferred their father to their mother. The court gave them time to consider the matter carefully and sent them home with their mother.

FIND REMAINS OF ANCIENT AMERICAN

Believed to Be Ancestor of Indian.

Galena, Ill.—The skeleton of a prehistoric American, an ancestor of the Indians, has been uncovered in a mound near here, by a University of Chicago anthropological expedition.

The bones, those of a man about thirty, were in a flexed position, the arms folded across the breast and the knees drawn up in closest approach to the chin. The find was made about three feet below the surface, along a 1,100-foot ridge of mound on a farm, where operations have been carried on for two weeks. The scientists are under the direction of Prof. Fay Cooper Cole. Near by were portions of two other skeletons, while bundles of bones also have been found, those of a woman, a child and a dog.

It was thought at first that the ridge might have been a fortification, after the forts of ancient type, but investigation revealed it as a burial place. Below the ridge, in a little oak-shaded plateau, was believed to have been the site of the primitive community.

Illinois, according to Prof. Cole, is the key state, anthropologically speaking. In the picture of prehistoric America which science is trying to depict, efforts are being made to find out what sort of people produced the Indian tribes that the white man found in this locality, and whether the civilization is linked with the great mounds of Ohio and lower Mississippi.

A large collection of relics already has been gathered in the Galena area by amateurs, and now it is planned to survey the district and open the mounds thoroughly. In one locality alone there are 125 mounds, all untouched. Others have been looted. Articles found included arrow heads, hammer heads, pottery, copper beads, bear-tooth necklaces, pipes and copper ornaments.

Skeletons uncovered will be incased in plaster and sent to the university laboratory for measuring, and then will go to the Field Museum and other institutions. The type of civilization revealed is not high in the opinion of Professor Cole, who said that so writing has been uncovered in mounds in any part of the United States.

Royal Landscapes Painter

Prince Eugene of Sweden, brother of the Swedish king, has taken his master studio to London, after a landscape painting tour to Italy in the residence. He is an accomplished artist, and his work filled four rooms at a recent exhibition of the work of Swedish artists in Stockholm. But he has consistently refused, due to shy-ness, to hold an exhibition in London. His master studio was especially designed by him and built to his order. It is a complete little building, with sleeping and living quarters included. It has a large studio window and can be "painted" at leisure from the perspective of the window light by which the artist works.

KINGSTON, N. Y. NOV. 18, 1926.

Both on country roads and city streets, millions and millions of dollars have been expended in construction of macadam roads, which, prior to the advent of motor vehicles, were quite adequate to meet traffic requirements, but under present conditions, absolutely inadequate. This is true, whether or not the macadam is sufficient in depth to provide adequate foundation. It is certainly deep enough to salvage and build upon with new material, rather than to excavate the old and start fresh, with its attendant waste of expenditure. It should be virtually obligatory upon street and highway officials to utilize this type of road base, by covering it with a suitable waterproof wearing surface.

WHAT DID SEATTLE GET?

The question has been asked: "Who made Seattle's street car problem?" The answer is, the politicians who wanted the city to own the lines, and who got the people to buy them on the theory that the city could operate them cheaper than a private company.

While the politicians are responsible for the problem, the people will have to pay the bill for this political experiment which cost $15,000,000 to start with, on top of $3,500,000 lost in taxes since the city owned the lines. Other taxpayers have had to make up this $3,500,000, besides paying one of the highest street car fares in the United States—10 cents a ride or three rides for a quarter—instead of five cents as promised by the politicians.

It would be hard for anyone to point to one single advantage which Seattle has derived from this costly experiment. The disadvantages which have resulted are so apparent that they should be an object lesson to every person who can profit by the experience of others.

OUTLAWING THE STRIKE.

The arbitration of the request for increased wages for conductors and trainmen of Eastern railroads began October 25, in New York city. It is being conducted under the provisions of the recently enacted Watson-Parker Railroad Act. The controversy involves a request by conductors and trainmen of Eastern railroads for an increase in wages approximating 20 per cent. It involves approximately 89,000 employees on 23 Eastern railroads. While the men demand increased pay, the railroads claim there is no justification for pay increases at this time.

But here is the point of greatest public interest. There is no strike nor threat of strike. The members of the board of arbitration have been chosen. These members represent the public, the employees and the railroads. Every fact in connection with the demand for pay increases will be weighed and considered, and such increases will be granted or denied as a matter of right and justice to the three parties at interest, namely, the public, the employees and the railroads. The workmen and the railroads are to be complimented on this orderly procedure, which has superseded the day of strike threat with its demoralization of business.

OUR WAR FILM IN PARIS.

The French, or many of the French, are both more open minded and more artistically appreciative than the English, or many of the English. That remarkable American war film, "The Big Parade," which was bitterly resented in London because an English soldier appeared in it, has been warmly accepted in Paris, although it is equally lacking in any participation in the war by French soldiers. After witnessing a private exhibition, seven associations of French war veterans and disabled soldiers have unanimously endorsed "The Big Parade," and it will be presented throughout the season at one of the most important of the cinema theatres in the French capital.

This film does not pretend to be a comprehensive picture of the World War, and could not be because it is merely the story of the experiences of three American doughboys behind the lines and at the front in France. To have depicted in either English or French soldiers would have sacrificed unity of design as well as employed needless and cumbersome material. The more artistic French understand this, but in London the film was denounced not only as failing to recognize British valor but as depicting "America won the war." The French veterans and disabled soldiers, on the other hand, not only unite in testimony to the film's amazing accuracy but declare their complete understanding of the fact that the story could call for the appearance of American troops only. Yet the French yield to no people in the quality of their patriotism or in their proud remembrance of the valor of their own soldiers. The difference would seem to imply a more generous open mindedness as well as superior artistic instinct.

DEVELOPING RESISTANCE TO ILLNESS.

One of the mysteries of medicine is why scarlet fever, measles, smallpox and other ailments, after attacking man once, seem to be satisfied and leave him alone thereafter, whereas pneumonia, erysipelas, malaria and others, continue to attack him from time to time, and leave him just a little more likely to have further attacks.

Generally speaking, the better the physical condition of the individual the less likely is he to have ailments, or if he has them they are not so severe. This of course is not always true, because some folks have a tendency towards certain ailments and others, even if not as strong physically, possess something which wards off these ailments.

It is thought that this is due to the fact that some ancestor, immediate or even remote, must have had a similar ailment and put up such a wonderful fight against it, that he handed on these strong fighting tissues, or at least killed off the possible effect of this ailment on the tissues of his children or grandchildren, for a time at least.

It is also admitted now that there can be a lowered resistance in an individual toward those diseases, because of carelessness on his part, or circumstances beyond his control.

Wet and cold feet, overwork, mental and physical, poor ventilation, all tend to lower the fighting qualities of the blood corpuscles, which ward off these ailments.

Baseball fans, following the game closely, expect certain pitchers to do well on a hot day and poorly on a cold or wet day. The wastes manufactured in the pitcher's arm during his turn in the box, should pass out by means of the blood, during the period that his team is at bat. If the weather is cold or damp, those wastes do not move quickly and the arm gets stiff and sore.

Hence the value of heat in fighting ailments of all kinds. Heat is life as has been mentioned so often. Where the blood supply is good and active, ailments do not stay so long. A cut on the face or hands heals quickly for this reason.

And the way to get heat is to eat good food, and then use up this food by work or play. This ensures a strong heart, and a good circulation, which are your best safeguards against illness.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.
 (Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

General Schuyler, Veteran Officer and Distinguished Statesman and Diplomat, died November 18, 1804.

Philip John Schuyler, distinguished officer in French and Indian War and general officer of the American Revolution, was born in Albany, New York, November 29, 1733, and died in his mansion there on Sunday, November 18, 1804.

John Schuyler, his father, was the son of that John Schuyler, who, in August, 1690, at the age of twenty-two years, led a force of twenty-nine Christians and 120 savages into Canada to avenge the massacre and burning of Schenectady, February 8, of that year.

The son went on wild trading and hunting excursions with Indians along the Mohawk River, and the Oneida Chiefs, to testify their regard for him, exchanged names with him, and from that time no man save Sir William Johnson, ever exercised a greater influence over the eastern tribes of the Iroquois confederacy than Philip Schuyler.

He served in the French and Indian War in two campaigns, first as captain and afterward as commissary with rank of major. He also served under General Lyman, and took part in the battle of Lake George, September 8, 1755. In the spring of 1756 he accompanied Col. John Bradstreet to Oswego and was closely associated with that officer throughout the war.

In 1761 he went to England to settle the colonial claims. Returning in 1763 he successfully engaged in the lumber business at Saratoga. He also built the first saw mill in America.

In 1764 he acted as a boundary commissioner to determine the line between New York and Massachusetts, and later helped settle the New Hampshire boundary. In 1768 he was chosen as Albany's representative in the colonial assembly, where he was an ardent patriot.

In 1775 he was a delegate to the Continental Congress and served on the committee to frame rules and regulations for the Continental Army. On June 19, 1775, he was commissioned major-general and placed in command of the Department of Northern New York, with headquarters in Albany.

General Schuyler planned to invade Canada and proceeded as far as Lake Champlain, where he left General Richard Montgomery in command of Fort Ticonderoga, while he returned to Albany to raise more troops and forward supplies. Early in 1776 he led an expedition to Johnstown, N. Y., where he seized the military stores that had been collected by Sir John Johnson.

He was considerably embarrassed by complaints that were sent by his enemies to General Washington and Congress. Owing to a clash with General Horatio Gates he offered his resignation September 14, 1776, which Congress would not accept.

Early in 1777 he was appointed chief of the Pennsylvania militia, and in June was again placed in command of Northern New York.

On July 4, 1777 Fort Mifflin was evacuated by General Arthur St. Clair, and later General Schuyler was tried by court martial for alleged neglect of duty in permitting its capture. He was acquitted and completely vindicated.

On July 29, 1777, he evacuated Fort Edward and retreated down the Mohawk Valley before Burgoyne. Notwithstanding the brilliant patriot success at Bennington, August 16, he was superseded by Gates, August 19, yet remained with the army and to him, more than to any other officer, belongs the credit of effecting Burgoyne's surrender October 19.

In October, 1778, General Schuyler was again elected a delegate to Continental Congress, when he became one of the most trustworthy counsellors of General Washington, and divided his time henceforth to the close of the war between Congress and Washington's headquarters. As president of the board of Indian Commissioners he visited the tribes of the Six Nations and made treaties that secured their neutrality.

In 1780 he was elected state senator from the western district of New York and served until 1784, again from 1786 till 1790, and finally from 1792 till 1797. He actively promoted the building of a canal between Lake Erie and the Hudson.

He was a Federalist in politics and with Alexander Hamilton and John Jay shared the leadership of that party.

In December, 1755, General Schuyler and Rufus King were chosen the first United States Senators from New York, and he held that office till 1781. Again, succeeding Aaron Burr, he filled the same office from May 15, 1797 till January 3, 1798, when serious illness compelled his resignation.

His residence in Albany for more than forty years was distinguished by its generous hospitality. There Baron Dieckau became convalescent after his capture, and there the remains of Lord Howe were conveyed after his death at Ticonderoga. Later General Burgoyne made it his home while in Albany, and Lafayette was among the host of guests who partook of its hospitality.

Senator Schuyler married, September 17, 1776, Catherine Van Rensselaer and had eleven children. His daughter Elizabeth became the wife of Alexander Hamilton.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)
New York—No more husbands for Dorothy Martin Sullivan Carley. She says she can't stay put in matrimony, and the stage, her first love, will now be her only one. She left it twice, first to wed Edward Sullivan, Jr., of Chicago and then, after a divorce, Harry Grey Carley of Boston.

Salt Lake City—Miss Nancy Anne Miller of Seattle has been going to the movies with the deposed Maharajah of Indore. But no romance is involved, her mother insists. She and her daughter are simply guests of the potentate on his tour of the country.

New York—Movies must wait for matrimony, especially when it is a first venture for each participant in the ceremony. Right from location to a city clerk went Dorothy Mackall, actress, and Luther Mendes, director. But there will be no honeymoon till the film is completed.

New York—Health Commissioner Harris wants all dogs vaccinated because of an increase of rabies. In tests of 335 dogs 200 cases of the disease were found; in the last six months 7,000 persons in the city have been bitten, nearly double the figure in the corresponding period last year. One case of human rabies resulted fatally recently.

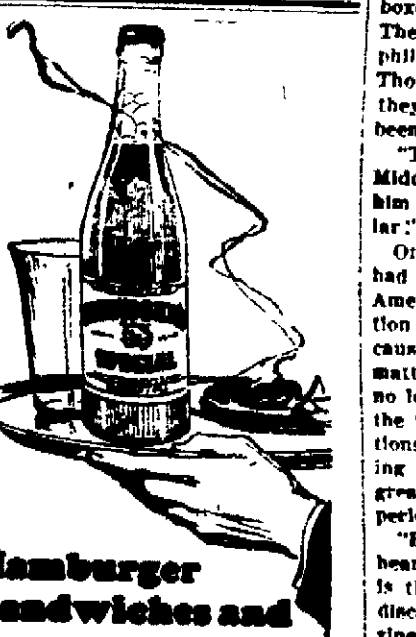

London—The secret of the channel swims of Miss Ederle and Mrs. Corson is out at last. Prof. Leonard E. Hill says that short skirts trained them to withstand cold.

New York—Members of the National Democratic Club deny that a contest for president of the club involves a Smith-McAdoo row. Thomas E. Rush, who was appointed secretary of the party when McAdoo was secretary of the treasury, wants to succeed himself. He is opposed by George J. Atwell, staunch Tammany man. Rush belongs to Tammany also, but used to have clashes with Charles F. Murphy.

Havana—A first class fighter is to represent Cuba at Washington. The new ambassador is Colonel Orestes Ferrara, who has fought more than a score of duels.

Havana—Paul Roundtree, who goes to Harvard, must watch a bit on a bet which those Princeton footballers made him lose. He agreed, if Princeton should win, to come to Cuba as a stowaway and return with a bottle of rum. He came, but insuperable difficulties have developed about the rest of the wager.

Record Hard to Beat
When a borrower brought back several books to the Philadelphia public library she announced that she was afraid that she had broken a record, for she had kept one of the books eleven years. She was assured that was not the record, for the library had just received a book from Holland that had been out 100 years.

WOULD FIND SPACE FOR ALL VOLUMES

Every Book, Good or Bad, Sacred to Librarian.

"Too many books!" So lamented Sir Gilbert Parker, the novelist, recently—denouncing present-day mankind for pouring forth such a flood of printed matter. The librarians recognize that to provide sufficient storage space is becoming an increasingly difficult problem. But none the less they carefully guard all the books they acquire, good, bad and indifferent.

"Most librarians would agree," Ernest Spofford, assistant librarian of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies, said recently, "that no one safely can say that a book is really worthless. Sometimes the most unexpected value will develop in a book almost anyone would have declared worthless."

Herbert Putnam, famous as librarian of congress, had a story he used to tell that illustrates this point.

"Can you imagine any book less worth keeping than a schoolbook at last, discarded when better books have been prepared?" once asked Mr. Putnam. "Yet such an atlas, left unopened for half a century on the shelves of the Library of Congress, proved the source of testimony that decided a lawsuit involving several hundred thousand dollars—all because the presence in it of a map of a particular date was the turning point of a dispute in an international law case, regarding where a certain boundary line at that time was supposed to run."

The librarians at Harvard used to delight in telling a similar story. The Harvard library had been outgrown. So a number of books no one had called for for many, many years were boxed up and stored in a basement. The very next day a distinguished philosopher called for the work of Thomas Aquinas. He was informed they were not in reach—they had been put away in a cellar.

"The greatest philosopher of the Middle Ages—and you have boxed him up and stuck him away in a cellar," stormed the philosopher.

One librarian recently said that he had stopped binding some of the American magazines of great circulation and great popularity—that because of the scattering of advertising matter through the reading matter it no longer was possible to bind simply the text, omitting the advertising sections, and that the bulkiness of reading matter plus advertising was so great that the expense of binding such periodicals was becoming prohibitive.

"But," continued Mr. Spofford on hearing this, "one of our great regrets is that the advertising sections were discarded when most sets of magazines were bound up."

"Again and again we have reason to lament that this advertising no longer can be referred to. Oftentimes we realize that it would be invaluable for throwing light on various matters of economic, industrial and local history."

The fact that some printed matter has small value as literature is not sufficient reason to denounce its publication as a waste of human effort, remarked Mr. Spofford.

"Reading matter often has value just as a means of recreation, even when it has no value as literature or as information."

"Consider the case of Simon Gratz. He was a lawyer of high attainments and active in public affairs."

"As one recreation he collected manuscripts and autographs. Eventually he bequeathed a marvellous collection of such materials to the Historical Society of Pennsylvania."

"All his life he was an ardent student of the lives and the times of the men and women whose autographs and letters, diaries and documents he had assembled. But when wearied from his studies he sought refreshment by reading detective stories. He declared the output of such stories—regarded as trash by many persons—was far inadequate to satisfy his own desires."

Kingston Wins Fast Game from Newburgh Five

Borgman Played Whirlwind Game, Scoring 18 Points—Referee Synett Calls 70 Fouls—McElwain Stars For Losers.

A newly combined outfit from Newburgh and Ridgewood stumbled over the heels of the King-Pats all night long, even tying the score at times, but was never able to get in front so the Kingston-Peterborough aggregation opened the throttle wide in the closing minutes and defeated the visitors by a 34-29 tally. Pete Synett was the eleventh man with in the net Wednesday night at the Armory and was in the limelight more often than all the rest of the warriors put together as his whistle discovered seventy-nine fouls. The Colonial City outfit made forty-three penalties, the Jilly City combination, thirty-six.

In the first half the teams very seldom strayed away from each other, the score becoming tied before the clubs had battled ten minutes. At half time but two markers spanned the teams, the King-Pats leading in a 18-17 score. Then the teams went at it just as seriously in the second portion of the contest. The Ridgewood-Newburgh outfit had enough fouls in those fifteen minutes to win two basketball games but didn't make them, so Benny Borgman decided the visitors didn't want even one and clinched the battle with two whirlwind fields and a few fouls. Arhus also dropped in two from the fifteen marker to help Benny win the contest.

Borgman Stars Again

It was virtually a battle of Benny Borgman versus Newburgh-Ridgewood as the Kingston flash registered eighteen markers, two more than the aggregate total hung up by the rest of the King-Pats. Benny made the first two pointers of the contest after the game had been under way about two minutes and broke away for another remarkable running shot before the half was over. But Borgman's work was of more value in the second half. After the time was half up in the second portion, the Kingstonian dropped his greatest of the evening in a double from the middle of the playground. Before the audience could get its breath from this one, Benny shot a rocket from the center of the playground for two more. McElwain, Benny's rival, then followed with two for the Jilly City lads. Then the visitors had six or eight more opportunities from the fifteen foot line and missed half of them. Benny steered a pair of fouls through the Irons and Arhus dropped in another pair, giving Kingston a five point margin at the final whistle.

Willie McElwain was the greatest threat for the visitors with eleven points. Four times during the game he broke away for spectacular two pointers, the same number that Borgman was able to corral. Al Kellett had more chances than any of his mates to feature from the fifteen foot line. Seventeen times he lined his toes to the white line, making but seven points through this method.

"Suede" Grimsted jumped center for the Kingston aggregation while Husta, Rider and Powers all had a crack at Nick Harvey's berth at guard. Husta started the game, Rider going in at the start of the second half, and Powers entering the fray after three or four minutes had been played in the second period.

Dancing was enjoyed after the contest to the strains produced by Harry Malsenholder's music makers. A play-by-play description of the contest was given by Joe Belcher over station WDBZ.

Brooklyn Here On Thanksgiving

If present plans are carried out the Brooklyn Visitation quintet of the National Basketball League will come to Kingston on Thanksgiving with about two hundred lusty supporters. The Brooklyn club must defeat Kingston in order to be in the pennant race and they will endeavor to do this early in the season. The Visitation are one of the best clubs in the league, being second in the team standing. Brooklyn also took a fall out of the Celtics this year.

The trip to Kingston on Thanksgiving will be made by bus and many Brooklynites are preparing to make the journey, because of the holiday vacation.

Annual Road Race Thanksgiving Day

The annual Thanksgiving road race will be held again this year. There will be medals of gold, silver, and bronze for the first three men of each class.

There will be four classes, 30 pounds, 115 pounds, 135 pounds, and unlimited. The men who are planning to enter should be up early these mornings, and doing a few miles before breakfast, to limber up.

The entry fee of 25 cents may be deposited with your name and weight at either the main desk or the physical director at the Y. M. C. A. Officials are being selected now so that everything can be conducted on scheduled time.

Greenleaf Again Wins Tourney

Philadelphia, Nov. 13 (P)—The world's pocket billiard championship was in possession of Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, today for the seventh time.

He regained the title last night after a lapse of only one year, by defeating Erwin Rudolph of Chicago, in the final match of the Round Robin tournament in which ten of the country's leading cueists were contestants. Under the rules Greenleaf is required to defend his championship every sixty days, the players being eligible to challenge in the order in which they finished. The runnerup lost no time in taking advantage of this provision and it was announced that he and Greenleaf would meet in Washington, D. C., on January 13.

Greenleaf's victory over Rudolph was impressive, but the match lacked the thrills that the spectators had experienced in some of the earlier contests.

Tunney Splits With Tex Rickard

New York, Nov. 18 (P)—Gene Tunney has no written contract to fight for Tex Rickard and probably will defend his newly won heavyweight crown next summer in a battle promoted by Humbert Fugazy.

The lack of a written agreement between Tunney and Rickard was disclosed yesterday. Tunney, in a conference with Fugazy, expressed his willingness to fight for that promoter if satisfactory terms could be arranged. Rickard admitted he had no more than a verbal agreement with Tunney under which the champion was to meet the winner of an elimination series this winter among leading contenders.

Fugazy will discuss the matter further with Tunney next Tuesday, he announced, and on that date the champion will explain his reasons for splitting with Rickard. Fugazy said, Tunney is reported dissatisfied with the financial returns of his fight with Dempsey in Philadelphia, when he received $204,000, according to Rickard. The original agreement called for Tunney to receive a flat guarantee of 15 per cent of the gate receipts, which would have amounted to $100,000, but a new arrangement was made shortly before the fight took place.

Green Team, Says Coach O'Leary

The Hi-Y club held a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday and several new members were installed and took the oath of the organization.

After the supper the president of the club introduced Coach O'Leary of the high school football team and his topic was "What is the Matter With the High School Football Team?" In the address Mr. O'Leary explained that to begin with this season he was forced to work with a green team, that is, all of the candidates who represented Kingston High School on the gridiron this year were new men. The only veteran that played on the eleven was Watts. The coach then presented the difficulties that confront the instructor as well as the team when it is necessary to form a combination from boys that have just a vague or no knowledge of the game.

Coach O'Leary then compared several of his men with the stars of the DUSO League, specifically pointing out that the man of several years experience as a player is always the mainstay of the team. He also expressed his contention that Kingston High School will stand a good chance to prove the theory that he has, next year, when most of this year's combination will again represent the school on the football field. Most of the other schools will be forced to pick inexperienced players next year as their veteran representatives will be either graduated or ineligible. Mr. O'Leary's prediction is that next year Kingston High School will head the DUSO League list.

Coach O'Leary received hearty applause for his address and appreciation for the knowledge he conveyed to the club was shown by all.

The meeting adjourned and the next gathering will be held on November 24 in the Y. M. C. A.

Any boy having 17 counts or more may join the organization and may sign up with H. LeFevre, Jr.

Runner Scores on Two Fouls to First Sacker

A peculiar play came up several years ago in an intercollegiate baseball game between the University of Idaho and the University of Oregon teams. The first batter walked, stole second and scored on two successive foul balls.

Percy O'Brien was holding down first base for Idaho. Shortly after the runner had purloined second the batter hit a high foul into the crowd halfway between the plate and first which O'Brien managed to spear near his shoetops after a thrilling dash. The baserunner dashed for third without even drawing a throw.

The next batter slammed a foul that was almost an exact duplicate of the previous blow and again O'Brien made a wonderful catch amongst the spectators, but before he could recover himself the runner was across the plate with what later proved to be the winning run. The last batter fanned.

Sport Notes

It will soon be in order to organize a society of women channel swimmers, with Gertrude Ederle as president.

Pitcher Joe Oeschger, recently released by the San Francisco Minors, immediately caught on with Oakland.

No wonder Babe Daniels fell for Charley Faddock. . . . Where would you look for a more dashing young man than the 100-yard champ?

And to think, swimming feats may soon be common enough for it to be referred to as "that little old English channel."

Obituary of a golfer: Here, by Fate's banker trapped, I lie; as rigid as a river. Oh, fellow-golfer, passing by, kindly replace my divot.

An Astatic prophet, now in New York, is said to enjoy the game of golf. He's genuine. If he can tell in advance which way his tee shot is going.

Aquatics are becoming so fashionable that any girl wearing more than a bathing suit is liable to be regarded as overdressed.

Joe Sternbaum of the Chicago Bulls has landed Garland Buckeye, Cleveland American League baseball pitcher, and Norman Strider, former star of St. Mary's college, Oakland, Calif.

"Freely" Peters, who will play for the University of Illinois this fall, has a record of 17 field goals in one game, made two years ago as a member of the freshman team at the University of Minnesota.

Clarke Pittenger, Louisville American association star shortstop, has been sold conditionally to the Cincinnati National league club. Pittenger has batted consistently around the .300 mark all season.

The Sweet race track in the East was recently completed at Rappahannock, at a cost of $1,200,000. The course, which is entirely surrounded with a brick wall, has four different tracks: a steeplechase, a cold weather, a summer and a sand.

Jackey D. Dubois will soon rush with the premier riding party of America, in the opinion of racing officials and turfmen. He is known as a "compensate rider," having the "monkey style" of riding made famous by Ted Sweeney, the handling of reins like Barbie Fords, and the fine flash of knee Sully.

A. A. U. Controls Olympic Body

Amateur Athletic Union Wins Control of American Olympic Organization by Putting Into Office Their Entire Ticket.

Washington, Nov. 18 (P)—An open break between rival national sports governing groups existed today, the culmination of a long period of strife, as an aftermath to the launching of the 1928 American Olympic organization.

The latest clash has left the Amateur Athletic Union more dominant than ever and in complete control of the plans for this country's participation in the Olympic games at Amsterdam, Holland, two years hence.

The quadrennial meeting of the American Olympic Association, a perpetual body which mostly sets in motion every four years the actual working machinery, furnished the setting for this climax to an athletic conflict that has found the A. A. U. arrayed for years against a group headed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and more recently including the National Amateur Athletic Federation and the Y. M. C. A. It ended in a sweeping triumph for the A. A. U. forces who put into office their entire ticket, headed by William C. Prout of Boston, as successor to Colonel Robert M. Thompson in the presidency of both the Olympic Association and newly formed Olympic Committee.

There were all the elements of a pitched battle in the sessions of delegates of some two score athletic organizations yesterday. Thrust back in the opening skirmishes, the A. A. U. gathered such strength as the meeting progressed through a mass of legislative matters that opposing forces, led by Brig-General Palmer E. Pierce of New York, president of the National Collegiate A. A., withdrew altogether from participation in the session and resigned from all committee memberships tendered him.

This is the first time such a pronounced split has marked the differences between these groups. Its effect on Olympic preparations, in view of the wide influence of the Y. C. A. A. in college ranks, is subject to speculation. It is not likely that the organizations led by General Pierce will withdraw as units of the Olympic organization, but working for common international aims seems indefinitely suspended.

Sport Briefs Of All Sorts

(By The Associated Press.)

The padded milt game, already boasting Monte Munn of Nebraska, Sully Montgomery of Centre, and other college athletes among the heavyweights, may find the name of Earl Britton, famous running mate of Red Grange at Illinois, added to the roll. Britton has asked Promoter Humbert Fugazy for a bout in New York soon. "T. N. T." Lashman, giant tackle of the undefeated New York University Violets, intends to enter the ring upon graduation.

Trouble has loomed on and off the gridiron for many star players this season. Quarterback Baysinger resigned from the Syracuse squad after attempting to punch Referee Schwartz during the rough Army game of October 16. Harold Cothran, Lafayette's star tackle and a likely all-American prospect, has been dropped from the team for breach of training rules. Two Nebraska gridders, Roy Mandery, end, and "Jug" Brown, crack halfback, were arrested recently in a raid on student gamblers in Lincoln.

Adolfo Luque, Cuban pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds and most famous of the island players in major league baseball emphatically denies a rumor that he is about to retire from the diamond to attend to his business interests. Store League rumors should be taken "with a little grain of salt and sometimes with a big lump of it," the Cuban declares.

EMPLOYED BOYS BEAT THE SAUGERTIES FIVE

The Employed Boys of the Y. M. C. A. defeated the Saugerties Five on the Y court Wednesday night by the score of 53 to 24. The local team outplayed their opponents in many ways. Clark of the local team corralled 22 points for his five and Robinson was the high scorer of the Saugerties team. He made 5 points.

and Commercial

New York, Nov. 18 (AP).—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment characterized today's stock market with major activity apparently on the downside. Standard Industrials and rails held fairly well, but bear triggers succeeded in uncovering a number of weak spots among the specialties, particularly those in which dividends are reported to be in danger. Worthington Pump & Iron and Detroit, each broke to new 1924 lows.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Bear traders have been discouraged, however, by the continued lack of public interest, although with few exceptions, commission houses report that there has been comparatively little forced liquidation indicating that stocks were strongly held. Judging from the volume of stock borrowed in the "loan crowd" the short interest in many issues is unusually large.

U. S. Steel, General Motors, Baldwin and other recent favorites fluctuated rather erratically within comparatively narrow limits in the first few hours of trading. Rails were quiet, but steady, despite predictions of recordbreaking October earnings. Standard Oil of New Jersey common sagged to 10 1/4, duplicating the year's low on liquidation presumably influenced by the recently announced plan of new financing through the sale of additional common stock and debentures in connection with retirement of the preferred.

Mrs. Gibson on Hospital Cot Gives Same Testimony

Supported by Physician and Nurse in Court, Mrs. Gibson Tells Substantially the Same Story as She Had Previously Told.

Court House, Somerville, N. J.,
Nov. 18 (AP).—Mrs. Jane Gibson, supported by a physician and nurse, raised herself on a hospital bed in court here today to point to Mrs.
Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, as three persons she saw near the spot where the bodies of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills were found.

The woman farmer, introduced by the state as an eye-witness of the double killing, was brought to the court in an ambulance from a Jersey City hospital and began her testimony with a nurse sitting at the edge of her bed and a physician at the head.

Voice Grows Stronger.

She spoke in a low voice as she started to tell her story and the court stenographers repeated her answers to the jury but as she proceeded her voice grew stronger and then she finished direct examination, occupying 25 minutes, she could be clearly heard. Her story was substantially the same as that she has previously told except that she said she saw Henry Stevens at the spot, after she had previously seen Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens in a sedan parked near De Russy's lane.

She declared that she heard voices of men and women and the words
"explain letters" and several oaths by men. An oath preceded the demand "let go" she testified. She then told of four shots which she described as "bang, bang, bang!"
Her recital of screaming in a woman's voice she emphasized with "oh, my, oh, my, what terrible screaming."

Only Identifies Henry Stevens.

"I seen a man and another man,"
she said when she told of seeing Henry Stevens. She was not asked to identify the "other man." She had previously said that she saw Henry Carpenter at the scene but the state's representative warned her not to say who the "other" man was in her testimony today. Henry Carpenter is under indictment but is not on trial with his three cousins.
She said that she saw Willie Stevens in the automobile but not at the spot where the mumble of voices was heard. Mrs. Hall was described as present later wringing her hands.

Hat Removed for Identification.

Mrs. Hall was asked to remove her hat which she did as the witness was held up to make her identification.
Willie Stevens leaned slightly forward as Mrs. Gibson told her story.
Henry Stevens sat back in his chair and Mrs. Hall's expression changed only once. She smiled slightly as Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson asked that her hat be removed.

Cattle and Lightning

The greater portion of the loss of cattle killed by lightning is caused by cattle drifting against wire fences during thunderstorms and being struck by lightning, which may be collected by the fence at a distance and brought to the herd with sufficient force to kill them. It is not often that cattle are killed by direct stroke unless it be under trees.

tropical forest situated in a region where there is rainfall almost every

Now it uses about 470 meters and is heard, although nobody cares to hear it as it interferes with WK& and probably bars out KFL. A short time ago WAPI jumped to 425 meters.

WDDZ was very satisfactory in giving a description of the basketball game through the courtesy of S. Cohen's Sons and the very efficient announcing of Mr. Belcher. By signaling during the interval between halves there was less strain on both announcer and audience and the eternal gratitude of the radio golfers was won by signing off for the night immediately after the close of the game. The new method of shielding the microphone showed further improvement and should be continued.

FEDERATED P. T. A. COUNCIL HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

The November meeting of the Federated Council of Parent-Teacher Associations was held on Wednesday afternoon at the high school.

It was voted to donate $5 to the Near East Relief in answer to an appeal from the new state president, Mrs. Albert W. Weaver of Buffalo. It was also voted to help the part time teacher, Miss Holmes, to the extent of $25, thus enabling her to purchase needed materials for the sewing class.

Miss Cordes gave an enthusiastic account of the High School P. T. A. meeting, and stated that the association was planning to work for an athletic play ground for which the school has long felt the need.

The president, Mrs. Harry Dederick, gave a very interesting account of the Convention of the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York city. There were 572 delegates, 74 of whom were from the Poughkeepsie district and 92 registered visitors. Mrs. Dederick told of the Memorial service held for Mrs. Edward Tuttle or Grandma Tuttle as she was affectionately called, who died in February. She was one of the founders of the P. T. A. work, the first club meeting being held in the drawing room of her home in New York city. She was 94 years old and had served as historian for the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers for many years.

Among the speakers at the Convention was Angelo Patri, principal of a school in Yonkers, who took a most happy and optimistic vision of the young people of today. He holds that they are keener, more intelligent, more capable, more humane, more moral and happier than the young people of any past generation.

The convention will be held in Binghamton next year.
